
Incidental detection of breast cancer during Tl-201 myocardial SPECT study

Ali S. ARBAB,* Kiyoshi KOIZUMI,* Takao ARAI,* Keisuke MERA,* Asako MIYAZAKI
and Masayuki OTAKA

Department of Radiology and Third Department of Internal Medicine, Yamanashi Medical University*

A case of left breast cancer which was detected incidentally by Tl-201 SPECT performed to evaluate the status of myocardial perfusion, is reported. Both stress and redistribution Tl-201 SPECT clearly delineated the tumor. It was confirmed later as scirrhous carcinoma of the breast.

Key words: breast tumor, scirrhous cancer, Tl-201 SPECT